Jo is an Outdoor Instructor and Expedition Leader, travelling all over the UK for DofE and all over the world for big mountain challenges but life hasn't always been that way.

She started off her working life training horses then moved into business management and a regular 9-5 job however being a risk averse, no saying, height fearing comfort loving girl, adventure was never on her radar.

Saying yes once gradually changed all that and last year she stood on top of Everest, having survived the tragic earthquake in Nepal in 2015. To say life has changed is an understatement!

Jo will walk you through her former self, how she challenged her fears and why her work as a leader, her 7 summits challenge and children's mental health charity Place2Be are so important to her.
